

Capitol Connection Q&A for Contractors

Week of 4/8/2024

By Shauna Krause, President, Capitol Services, Inc.

One contractor discovers while you can be one, you can't be called one. I also dip into the strange way waterproofing is handled by contractor rules, and an attorney finds that the 'fourth' is strong in this one...

Q: I want to add one of my long time employees to our license as an Officer. However, he doesn't have any ownership in the Company and is not listed on the CA Secretary of State records, nor do I really want him to be. I just need him to be able to communicate with the CSLB about licensing issues. They will only talk to individuals listed on the license. Am I able to add him with just the title "Officer"?

A: The CSLB doesn't accept "officer" as an official Officer title. The CA Secretary of State (SOS) only requires that a President, Secretary, Treasurer, and sometimes Director be listed on their records. As long as you give him a title, which is not one of those, you do not need to add him to the SOS records. Examples are Vice President, Assistant Secretary, Chief Compliance Officer, etc.

Q: Is there a "waterproofing" license/classification we can add to our license? We have a "C-39" (Roofing) and a "C-17" (Glazing) license. Some of our customers purchase a waterproofing package from us where the waterproofing may go in the shower surround, or concrete, or whatever the case may be. We are looking for something to cover us for all of the waterproofing we do.

A: The short answer is no, there is no waterproofing classification. The long answer is, there are several classifications that can perform waterproofing. Certainly, the "C-39" (Roofing) can when it's related to the roofing. Waterproofing is covered under the classification you are performing the work in relation to. For example, waterproofing concrete could be covered under "D-06" (Concrete Related Services), or if you are applying a protective sealant, it could be covered with the "D-12" (Synthetic Products) classification. Waterproofing a shower surround would again depend on what you are doing/applying to waterproof it. Feel free to call my office to discuss.

Q: I am an Attorney and I have a situation in relation to a case I'm reviewing. I'm seeing that the same individual is on 3 corporate licenses and one individual, all concurrently Active now. Is this possible, or is this an oversight by the CSLB? I know you can be an Responsible Managing Officer (RMO) on 3 but can you still have a fourth one as an individual?

A: Yes. The way B&P Code section 7068.1 is written, as long as the Qualifying Individual meets the guidelines, "a qualifying individual may act as the qualifier for no more than three firms in any one-year period." Further, it defines "firm" to mean a partnership, a limited partnership, a corporation, or an LLC. Sole Proprietorships do not count in the rule of three.

While knowledge is power, knowing where to go for the answers is half the battle. INTRODUCTION

Diesel fuel is used in many different industries. It can be used to fuel trucks, cars, and machines. There will be times when a container filled with diesel fuel will tip over, be dropped, or leak. Leaked or spilled diesel fuel can become dangerous to both employees and the public if it is not cleaned up properly. Following the safe work practices provided in this lesson will help ensure employee safety.

HAZARDS

When diesel fuel spills or leaks, it can potentially expose employees and the public to several hazards, including:

- Contaminating water (when diesel fuel enters drains, rivers, lakes, etc.)
- Fire (when exposed to heat, flames, or oxidizers)
- Explosion (when vapors are ignited)
- Headaches
- Nausea
- Eye irritation
- Damage to the lungs

PERSONAL PROTECTIVE EQUIPMENT (PPE)

Employees should wear the personal protective equipment provided in the spill kit:

- Gloves
- Goggles (when supplied by employer or spill kit)
- Apron (when supplied by employer or spill kit)

DIESEL SPILL SAFETY PROCEDURES

SAFE WORK PRACTICES

Cleaning up a spill or leak in a timely manner is important. For a spill or leak to be cleaned up in a timely manner, employees should know the following before a leak or spill occurs:

- Know the location of all spill kits. Spill kits should be kept in an area that is easy to access.
- Know what a spill kit contains. Personal protective equipment will vary between spill kits based on the material that was spilled or leaked.
- Drivers should keep a spill kit in all company transport vehicles at all times. Spill kits should be kept in an area of the vehicle that is easy to get to and items should not be stored on top of them whenever possible.

When a spill or leak occurs, time is of the essence. Nobody wants to have diesel fuel enter any drains or waterways. Employees should do the following when cleaning up a spill or leak:

- When a leak or spill is brought to your attention, you should grab the spill kit and put on the personal protective equipment (PPE) that has been provided. Take a quick second to inspect the PPE for damage. If the PPE has been damaged, report it to your supervisor.
 - If your company does not have a spill kit, grab some rubber or heavy-duty disposal gloves, kitty litter or some other absorbent material, a heavy-duty plastic bag (garbage bags would be best), broom, and dust pan. Wearing goggles is optional, but may be required by employer.
- Stop the source of the leak or spill.
- Block off the area where the spill occurred to prevent others from entering the area during clean up.
- The leak or spill should be surrounded by absorbent socks. If you do not have absorbent socks, use kitty litter or some other absorbent material around the edge of the spill or leak to prevent it from spreading further.
- If possible, cover or block drains to ensure that no diesel fuel enters the drain.
 - If you notice that diesel fuel has entered a drain or some other source of water, report it to your supervisor as soon as possible as the EPA or other agencies will need to be contacted.
- Follow the spill kit directions for the use of absorbent pads or absorbent granules.
- Once all fuel has been cleaned up, ensure that the container for the used material has been labeled as hazardous waste and dispose of it in accordance with local and federal law.
- Report the spill to your supervisor. When possible, have another coworker report the spill to your supervisor while you clean up the spill or leak. If you do have another person report it, you should still go to your supervisor to provide additional information about the spill or leak.

CONCLUSION

It is every employee's responsibility to ensure that any leaked or spilled diesel fuel is cleaned up properly and in a timely manner. If a leak or spill is left unattended, the fuel could go down a drain or catch on fire, resulting in more damages and potential fines. Employees should remember to put on PPE before attending to any spills. If employees utilize the safe work practices provided in this lesson, they will find that they minimize the risk associated with diesel fuel spills and leaks.
