Capitol Connection Q&A for Contractors Week of 4/1/2024 By Shauna Krause, President, Capitol Services, Inc.

While contractor law is written in ink the words can be subject to interpretation. That is where expert understanding is sharpest in avoiding 'errors' or misunderstanding...

Q: It appears that, per California Business & Professions Code § 7071.19, professional liability insurance and errors & omissions insurance will also be required at the time of obtaining the General contractor license. Is that your understanding as well? I know when we spoke you had mentioned the need for bonds, liability, and Worker's Compensation insurance. Are we to ignore the regulation in regards to the E&O insurance?

A: No, you do not ignore B&P Code 7071.19 which is referring to the requirement for liability insurance coverage for Limited Liability Companies (LLC). They use the words "errors" and "omissions" in the statute to describe the reason for needing to maintain liability insurance – "maintain a policy or policies of insurance against liability imposed on or against it by law for damages arising out of claims based upon acts, errors, or omissions arising out of the contracting services it provides". But the CSLB does require that you obtain or show proof of a separate E&O policy. They require that an LLC maintain at least $1 million in general liability coverage.

Q: We need to replace our Qualifying Individual who left the Company recently. The person who makes the most sense to have as our new Qualifier is one of our Officers who is not planning on leaving the company until retirement.

However, he is concerned about providing his personal information to the CSLB. Can you confirm exactly what personal information he would be required to disclose? Secondly, specific to his ownership shares, is this something that the general public will be able to see online?

A: The CSLB requires the Qualifying party list their full name, residential address, phone number, date of birth, social security number, and percentage of ownership on the application. They ask for a driver's license number but it's not required. The CSLB never shares personal information, even if someone was to request a copy of a licensee's entire file. They always withhold all personal information such as DOB and SSN.

With regards to ownership, on the CSLB's website the general public will not be able to see the specific ownership amount the Qualifying Individual has in the company, however they will be able to see whether the person owns more than 10%, or less than 10%. This is because if the RMO/RME owns less than 10% of the company, they are required to have a Bond of Qualified Individual on file. If the RMO/RME owns more than 10%, no Qualifier Bond is required. Outside of the website, if the general public wanted to see the specific ownership the Qualifier owns, they would need to make a copy request with the CSLB and pay the fee.

While knowledge is power, knowing where to go for the answers is half the battle. ## PAINTER SAFETY

INTRODUCTION

Painting involves several different areas of safety, from being aware of the chemicals you are using to being sure you are following the proper procedures for working at heights. Although it seems like a lot, if you remember the following tips you can avoid negative consequences of painting.

PAINT SAFETY

If paint is not handled correctly, it can cause health problems, such as:

- Drowsiness
- Dizziness
- Nausea
- Dermatitis
- Internal organ and nerve damage

To avoid these problems, remember:

- Always consult the Material Data Safety Sheet (MSDS) or the instructions for the paint you are using.
  - Be especially aware of what is and isn't safe to mix.
- Close the lids tightly when you are finished with the paint.
- Only buy as much paint as you need at a time.
- If you do have paint leftover after you finish a project, do not store it near heat or ignition sources.
- Wear the proper Personal Protective Equipment such as goggles and gloves, and even respirators if necessary .

WORKING AT HEIGHTS

Many painting jobs involve heights. When working at great heights, always follow the rules for using scaffolds, remember to use proper fall protection, and don't forget to inspect your equipment.

If you are using a ladder, remember:

- Stay away from power lines if you can.
  - If you must work around power lines, do NOT use an aluminum ladder (use a fiberglass ladder instead).
- Be sure you set the ladder at a safe angle.

PAINTER SAFETY

- Keep the ladder free of paint, mud, or anything else that will cause it to be slippery.
- Do not overreach while you are on the ladder.
  - A good rule of thumb is to make sure your left shoulder doesn't pass the right side of the ladder, and vice versa.
- Be sure you always have three points in contact with the ladder to avoid falling.
  - "Three points" means at least two feet and a hand, or two hands and a foot.

PAINTING AREA SAFETY

Preparing the environment for painting may be hazardous to your health as well. For example, the old paint you remove before you put the new paint on may be composed of lead, or you could accidentally scrape a wall that contains asbestos. Therefore, remember to wear proper protective clothing, such as coveralls and a respirator or use controlled sanding procedures if you will be exposed to the hazards.

GENERAL TIPS

- Keep unauthorized people and pets away from painting.
- If you are working inside, be sure you have proper ventilation while painting.
- Do not use flammable materials, such as gasoline, to clean your brushes.
   Always follow your company's procedures for cleanup.
- Rotate tasks throughout the day so you do not overstrain yourself.

CONCLUSION

Although painting has several hazards, as long as you follow the proper procedures when working with paint, heights, and potentially dangerous environments, you should be able to avoid the negative effects of painting.
